

Parabola Center is a nonprofit and nonpartisan think tank of legal professionals and drug policy experts. We advocate for legalizing cannabis in a way that puts people first and prioritizes racial and economic equity over corporate profits.

Our board of directors is comprised of women of color who are cannabis experts and attorneys. Each of us have a deep history of activism, entrepreneurship, and experience as an appointed regulator or advisor.

Our mission is to provide everyone with the education, access, and expertise to support cannabis policies that put communities and small businesses first.

2024 Annual Crash Course

What is it?

Join us in Providence, Rhode Island July 13-14, 2024 to chart a course toward federal legalization that centers all of us. We're bringing together some of the country's top experts on drug policy, racial justice, and public health to train the next generation of leaders for this new phase of federal marijuana law reform.

Why now?

While legalization is exciting, it is heavily influenced by big money over the heads of small businesses and workers. We're coming together to design a different legal framework and use this opportunity to ensure the revenue goes back to the millions of people that are disproportionately impacted by the War on Drugs.

How do we learn more?

The crash course and training will be free for attendees, but space is limited. Sign up for our list at parabolacenter.com/signup to be the first to learn when registration opens. In the meantime, visit us on Twitter, LinkedIn, and Instagram @parabolacenter.
